

Generation Delta

Online Roundtable for University Staff

Addressing institutional barriers to accessing PhD studies with an emphasis placed on those which disproportionately impact Black, Asian and/or minority ethnic (BAME) women eligible for home fees in England

We are looking for up to eight staff members from each of the six Generation Delta institutions to take part in a roundtable discussion about addressing barriers in access to postgraduate studies.

Early registration is recommended.

This Generation Delta roundtable offers an exciting opportunity for all colleagues involved in recruitment and admission of postgraduate research (PGR) students.

You will be part of a cross-institutional conversation about how access to PGR studies can be made more equitable with a focus on improving experiences and outcomes for BAME women applicants eligible for home fees.

Discussions will be relevant to staff in doctoral academies/graduate schools, PGR directors at departmental and school level as well as PGR supervisors.

Generation Delta is one of the 13 projects funded by UKRI-Research England to tackle the inequalities that create barriers for BAME students to access and take part in postgraduate research in England.

Generation Delta aims to:

- Address institutional & individual barriers impacting BAME women at different stages of the PGR life cycle
- Lay the foundations for a long-term increase in the number of BAME women in England's professoriate
